Section 1: Introduction

Since significant overlap can occur between medical problems, mental health and substance use disorders, Blue Shield of California (Blue Shield), wants to facilitate treatment of members that is coordinated between the behavioral health provider and the physician. The purpose of this manual is to provide IPAs and medical groups with an overview of Blue Shield protocols developed to promote the integration of medical and behavioral health treatment. The term Behavioral Health refers to mental health and substance use disorder throughout this manual.

This manual is intended as a guideline for the physician and office staff to coordinate the provision of behavioral and medical services to Blue Shield's members and to clearly identify the responsible party for mental health and substance use disorder services including mixed services.

Blue Shield values and promotes effective and proactive operational interactions with medical colleagues as a vital component of quality patient care. We look forward to partnering with you to improve the clinical outcomes of members.

Section 2: Medical Care Solutions Interface Procedures

Blue Shield Behavioral Health Services intake and care management staff will coordinate appropriate communication with all medical providers. Intake and care management will make referrals to Blue Shield's Medical Care Solutions Department when it is determined that the primary diagnosis is medical in nature, rather than Behavioral Health. Blue Shield Behavioral Health Services intake and care management will receive referrals when the primary diagnosis is determined to be Behavioral Health in nature.

If the primary diagnosis is medical in nature, Blue Shield's Medical Care Solutions staff will notify the IPA or medical group regarding their responsibility to manage the members' medical care based on the contractual delegation of services.

A. Referral Procedures

Blue Shield Behavioral Health Services will respond to requests for Behavioral Health services from the member, Blue Shield departments, the primary care physician (PCP), or other licensed health professional, consistent with the California Department of Managed Healthcare (DMHC) established standards for managed behavioral health organizations.

If a Blue Shield licensed clinician determines on initial contact that the diagnosis is medical in nature, the Blue Shield licensed clinician or intake coordinator will refer the member back to either Blue Shield Medical Care Solutions, or the member's PCP, IPA, or medical group.

If the member's PCP determines that the member is in need of Behavioral Health evaluation/treatment and would like to make a referral for such treatment, the PCP or his/her representative should call Blue Shield at (877) 263-9952 to be connected to a licensed mental health clinician who will facilitate the request. Members can self-refer to Blue Shield through toll-free telephone access at (877) 263-9952 and do not need a referral from the IPA or PCP.

Requests for emergent evaluations can be made by direct referral to an emergency room or direct referral for mental health emergency treatment, or by dialing 911.

Requests for Behavioral Health consultations while a member is admitted to a facility can be made through either of the above toll-free numbers. Blue Shield Behavioral Health Services will review and, if required, issue an authorization according to the protocols established in this manual.

B. Triage Guidelines

The triage guidelines are designed to clarify the lines of Behavioral Health care management and IPA/medical group care management for members with complex clinical conditions. The IPA/medical group and Blue Shield are responsible for coordinating care for these complex members to ensure timely access to care and coverage of care rendered.

The following guidelines determine the assignment of care management and financial responsibility in the majority of mixed service cases.

1. Place of service - medical / surgical v. Behavioral Health unit / facility

Based on the place of service (medical/surgical setting vs behavioral health unit/facility), Blue Shield assumes responsibility for coverage of Behavioral Health professional services. Below are common scenarios of responsible party coverage:

- Facility charges and care management related to medical treatment in a medical/surgical setting (ambulatory or inpatient) for gender affirming care, eating disorder, substance use disorder, or medical stabilization as a result of a mental health condition are the responsibility of Blue Shield or the IPA/medical group, regardless of mental health diagnosis depending on the contract between Blue Shield and the IPA/medical group.

Note: See Section C: Covered Behavioral Health Services below for Behavioral Health Consultation delineation of responsibility.

- Facility charges related to treatment in a Behavioral Health unit or facility for the treatment of modifiable Behavioral Health conditions is the responsibility of Blue Shield.

2. Type of professional (attending, consultant) primary care / medical – surgical v. Behavioral Health

Blue Shield assumes responsibility for coverage of professional services rendered by in-network Behavioral Health providers or out-of-network providers when access to care or continuity of care applies. Below are common scenarios of coverage responsibility:

- If a Behavioral Health consultation is required in a medical/surgical setting, Blue Shield will assume the care management and financial responsibility of the consultative service, including special procedures, and tests associated with the Blue Shield consultative service.

- If the Behavioral Health consultant identifies a condition may have an organic component that would require formal diagnostic tests (e.g., EEG, MRI, CAT SCAN, EKG, Genetic Testing, etc.), these tests would continue to be the responsibility of Blue Shield or the IPA/medical group based on the contract and requires the express authorization of Blue Shield or the member's IPA/medical group as required under the member's Evidence of Coverage.

3. Primary clinical condition / focus of Outpatient Behavioral Health treatment

Payment for outpatient Behavioral Health services are subject to eligibility at the time of service, benefit limitations, medical policies, and prior authorization, if applicable. Below is a common scenario of coverage responsibility:

- As an example, if a member has a traumatic head injury with cognitive changes resulting in a mental health disturbance, Blue Shield Behavioral Health Services, where appropriate, requires notification and prior authorization. Blue Shield will assume responsibility for mental health services provided by a Blue Shield Behavioral Health network provider.

C. Covered Behavioral Health Services

The following chart provides a useful reference to covered Behavioral Health services. The specific clinical situation must be evaluated within the context of place of service, the attending provider's area of specialty, and the primary diagnosis, pursuant to Section B above. Payment for services are subject to eligibility at the time of service, benefit limitations, and prior authorization, if applicable.

E. Co-Management Procedures

All medical consultations at any level of care will be coordinated through Blue Shield or the member's IPA/medical group. When contacted, Blue Shield or the IPA/medical group will authorize and identify appropriate medical consultants when medically necessary. The mental health provider shall seek authorization from Blue Shield or the IPA/medical group for medical diagnostic evaluations prior to their ordering. If the medical consultant does not have medical staff privileges at the Behavioral Health facility, Blue Shield or the IPA/medical group must make appropriate arrangements for a medical consult at their expense.

F. Resolution of Disagreements

If the Blue Shield Behavioral Health care manager and complex case manager and their medical counterparts cannot agree on any aspect of the procedures described above, the matter should be referred immediately for resolution, by phone contact between the appropriate Blue Shield Medical Director and the appropriate Medical Director of the IPA/medical group, as appropriate.

Section 3: Blue Shield Behavioral Health Interface with Primary Care Physicians

A. PCP Referrals

Blue Shield will develop several processes that allow its staff to monitor and facilitate the coordination of care between the member's primary care physician (PCP) and the Behavioral Health provider, with written member consent, such as:

- Blue Shield Behavioral Health will provide PCP contact information to facility providers upon member admission.
- Blue Shield Behavioral Health will actively coordinate the co-administration of medical/Behavioral Health services through contact with the IPA/medical group case manager.
- Blue Shield's Behavioral Health Committee will routinely monitor all programs and initiatives via a set of associated core metrics.

Section 4: Behavioral Health/Medical Clinical Interface

The information in this section includes a list of the most common clinical situations that lie at the interface between the Behavioral Health disciplines and other disciplines in medicine. This list is not meant to be exhaustive, but rather to assist in the identification of members who are likely to benefit from care provided by a PCP or medical specialist and a psychiatrist or addictionologist.

A. Behavioral Health Disorders with Concurrent or Co-Morbid Medical Sequelae

- Anorexia nervosa, bulimia, other eating disorders
- Dementia
- Other neurological degenerative diseases
- Psychological sequelae accompanying chronic pain
- Substance use detoxification
- Psychological sequelae of terminal illnesses
- Other cerebral white matter disorders
- ADHD
- Sexual dysfunction (desire, arousal, orgasmic, sexual pain, etc.)
- Intermittent explosive disorder
- Conversion, or hypochondriacal disorders
- Autism spectrum disorders

B. Circumstances That Might Warrant a Referral to a Psychiatrist, Addictionologist or Behavioral Health Clinician by a PCP

- Diagnostic consultation
- Evaluation for psychotherapy
- Evaluation for substance use disorder treatment
- Evaluation for psychotropic medication management
- Need for ongoing psychotropic medication maintenance review
- Severe, recurrent, persistent, or psychotic psychological symptoms
- Presence of complex medical/mental health problems
- Poor compliance with recommended medical treatment plan
- Partial response to initial treatment(s) of depression, anxiety, agitation, or sleep problems
- Evaluation for ECT

- Need for Behavioral Health hospitalization
- Need for involuntary commitment
- Symptom recurrence after a positive acute-phase response
- Undiagnosable, ill-defined physical complaints
- Differential diagnosis for a child Behavioral Health disorder

Section 5: Frequently Asked Questions

- 1. In situations where a member sees a PCP for an office visit and is diagnosed and managed for a Behavioral Health disorder, is the office visit reviewed under the medical or behavioral health benefit?

There should be no obstacles discouraging members from seeking assistance from their PCP. PCPs can diagnose and manage general Behavioral Health disorders. Blue Shield/IPA will manage all services provided by the non-Behavioral Health providers. Blue Shield will assume management of services upon transfer of care to a Blue Shield Behavioral Health provider. Blue Shield Behavioral Health has Behavioral/Developmental Pediatricians in the network. These physicians will bill and be reimbursed by the for the Behavioral Health disorders that they treat.

- 2. How are emergency room visits for physical symptoms of an anxiety attack (heart palpitations, nausea, etc.) reviewed?

In these situations, the member typically presents at the emergency room with the intent of ruling out the presence of a potentially life-threatening medical disorder. Therefore, Blue Shield/IPA, based on contract, is responsible for these cases. If the emergency room physician requests a mental health consultation, Blue Shield Behavioral Health is responsible for the consultation service.

- 3. Are laboratory tests, to determine blood levels of psychotropic medications, covered by Blue Shield or the IPA/medical group?

Outpatient laboratory tests (excluding genetic/DNA testing for antidepressant medication) ordered in the interest of the psychiatrist's management of the mental health member, such as psychotropic medication (e.g., lithium and depakote) levels without express authorization of the members' IPA/medical group are the financial responsibility of Blue Shield as part of Behavioral Health.

Laboratory tests ordered by a psychiatrist while the member is hospitalized in a psychiatric facility will be covered under the mental health benefit and managed by Blue Shield Behavioral Health, unless the tests have been authorized by Blue Shield or the member's IPA/medical group.

4. How should a dual diagnosis case (i.e., hypertension/depression, heart disease/depression, etc.) be handled?

Blue Shield Medical Care Solutions, Blue Shield Behavioral Health, and the IPA/medical group will manage the care in their respective areas of specialization. Please refer to the Co-Management Procedures previously outlined in Section E.

5. Many times, when individuals are hospitalized for a serious medical illness, the hospital will order a psychiatric consult to help the member deal with the disease process. How should this be handled?

To obtain a consultation from a psychiatrist while the member is confined in a medical/surgical bed, the PCP or his/her representative should call the Blue Shield at (877) 263-9952.

6. Who will handle office visits for ADHD?

Blue Shield Behavioral Health reviews and manages authorized visits to mental health clinicians for the treatment of this disorder.

7. How will anesthesia for electroconvulsive treatment be handled?

Anesthesia is routinely administered with electroconvulsive treatment. Because it is a procedure that is customarily provided with a psychiatric intervention it is covered under the mental health benefit administered by Blue Shield.

8. How will examinations, x-rays, and lab procedures to rule out physical disorders with a mental health diagnosis be handled?

Blue Shield/IPA's administer coverage for authorized medical diagnostic tests ordered with the goal of ruling out physical disorders. Blue Shield Behavioral Health will recommend a medical consultant that is both part of the Blue Shield/IPA and has or can obtain temporary staff privileges at the Blue Shield authorized facility or the Blue Shield/IPA will select a consultant who does have or can obtain medical privileges at the Blue Shield authorized facility and then be responsible for all medical tests ordered by this consultant. Blue Shield Behavioral Health refers Behavioral Health providers to the appropriate authorizing entity when they become aware of orders for medical diagnostic tests. An exception to the Blue Shield/IPA responsibility for medical diagnostic tests is when tests are ordered in the interest of a Behavioral Health procedure such as ECT. Failure to coordinate medical services with the appropriate Blue Shield/IPA will result in Blue Shield Behavioral Health being financially responsible for said services.

9. What if a member is suffering from neurological disorders and is being treated at a Behavioral Health unit?

Blue Shield Behavioral Health Services manages the care of members who are being treated by a psychiatrist. Blue Shield/IPAs provide management of the neurological and other medical/surgical disorders. In those instances, the mental health benefit would cover the services provided by the psychiatrist and in the Behavioral Health unit. The medical/surgical benefit would cover services managed by Blue Shield/IPAs. The attending psychiatrist is directed to Blue Shield/IPA to arrange for medical/neurological consultation, when medically necessary.

10. How will members be managed when they are admitted for anorexia and/or bulimia but may require additional days for serious medical complications?

Blue Shield Behavioral Health Services administers the mental health benefit for these members. If their medical condition requires services at a medical/surgical facility, then Blue Shield /IPA will manage these services. Blue Shield Behavioral Health Services provides management only for the mental health consultative services.

11. How will neuropsychological testing be handled?

Blue Shield/IPA is responsible for examination and management of members with medical diagnoses (e.g., head injury) in the absence of mental health concerns.

Blue Shield Behavioral Health Services is responsible in those circumstances in which neuropsychological testing is to help determine if a mental disorder is due to a neurological or neuroendocrine medical condition or treatment (versus psychiatric disease alone) when the diagnosis cannot be made through standard psychiatric or medical/neurological examination. For individuals with psychiatric diagnoses for whom neuropsychological testing will facilitate treatment planning, or assist in the determination of a differential diagnosis, a comprehensive Behavioral Health evaluation should be completed by an in-network Blue Shield Behavioral Health provider prior to a request for neuropsychological testing. If upon completion of the comprehensive Behavioral Health and neurological evaluations, either the in-network provider or neurology provider determines that neuropsychological testing is required, the provider will request authorization from Blue Shield Behavioral Health Services.

12. How will psychiatric consultation, as part of a pre-surgical requirement, be handled for individuals with a primary medical diagnosis?

For members who have a primary medical diagnosis or condition, psychiatric consultations as part of a routine pre-surgical work up (e.g., gastrointestinal bypass, organ transplant, etc.) will be arranged for and authorized by Blue Shield Behavioral Health Services, provided that the services are rendered by an in-network Blue Shield provider. This requires coordination between the PCP/Specialist and Blue Shield.

Section 6: Laboratory Tests to Rule Out Physical Disorders and Monitor the Use of Psychotropic Medications

Behavioral Health providers are directed to coordinate care with Blue Shield/IPA to identify preferred facilities for performing these laboratory tests. It is the standard of care for Behavioral Health medication management to include ordering laboratory tests to monitor the medication levels and or specific organ functions. All laboratory tests to rule out the presence of a medical disorder shall be coordinated with Blue Shield/IPA. Failure to do so will result in Blue Shield being financially responsible for said tests unless said tests were ordered by a medical consultant for clarification of a medical diagnosis. In this situation, the member who is at the inpatient level of care must utilize the inpatient laboratory contracts and would be a financial responsibility of Blue Shield/IPA.

The following is a list of the common laboratory tests that are associated with various psychotropic medications. This is not an exhaustive list.
